

THE QUESTION, IN THE READER'S WORDS

Which city should I choose to establish my business?

A · Zug — where I live now

B · London

C · New York

Sample reading · invented birth data, not a real person: 20.09.1985, 08:15, Zurich · Reading of 2 October 2026 · Annual chart for Zug

The chart can tell staying from moving, but not London from New York — and it names two windows for your career, the same in all three cities

SITUATION

You want to establish a business and are choosing between three cities: Zug, where you live now, London and New York.

COMPLICATION

The cities differ in market, network and the cost of starting. The chart reads any move abroad through one house, so London and New York look the same in it. And the systems touch that house across most of the year — too long a stretch to name a window for moving.

RESOLUTION

Score the three cities on the same scorecard. Use the two career windows — 21 May to 20 September 2027, and 20 November 2027 to 21 March 2028 — as dates to work back from. Look back on 20 September 2027.

your day for looking back

Have the case for each city ready before 21 May 2027, when the first career window opens

What to watch for

Whether questions about your role and standing gather between 21 May and 20 September 2027 — the first window, where two systems agree.

What to prepare

A one-page case for each city, answered on the same scorecard (slide 7), before 21 May 2027.

Before choosing

Compare all three side by side before choosing one.

Your day for looking back

20 September 2027, when your next annual chart begins. Mark each statement on slide 4: as in the frame · differently · not decided yet.

OPTIONAL MONTHLY CHECK-INS – YOU CHOOSE

Your annual chart keeps career and standing in focus in these months. If you want a reminder, each one asks a single question: who did you speak to about where to build this?

late Oct 2026	late Feb 2027	late Apr 2027
late May 2027	late Jul 2027	20 Sep 2027 · look back

One system on its own — a rhythm for your thinking, not a window. Off unless you switch it on.

Three statements you can check against the coming year — each says how you would know it was wrong

1 Between 21 May and 20 September 2027, questions about your role and standing are more likely to come up than from January to May 2027.

Basis: two systems agree — the Chara sub-period of Virgo, the sign that holds Mercury, ruler of your career house; and your annual chart, which keeps career in focus in those months.

How you'll know we were wrong: January to May 2027 bring as many conversations about your role, title or position as late May to September.

2 Between 20 November 2027 and 21 March 2028, steps that make the business visible — first clients, a launch, a title — are more likely than from April to July 2028.

Basis: three systems agree, the strongest agreement in the two years — the Chara sub-period of Gemini, your career sign itself; the annual chart; and a slow-planet transit over your career house.

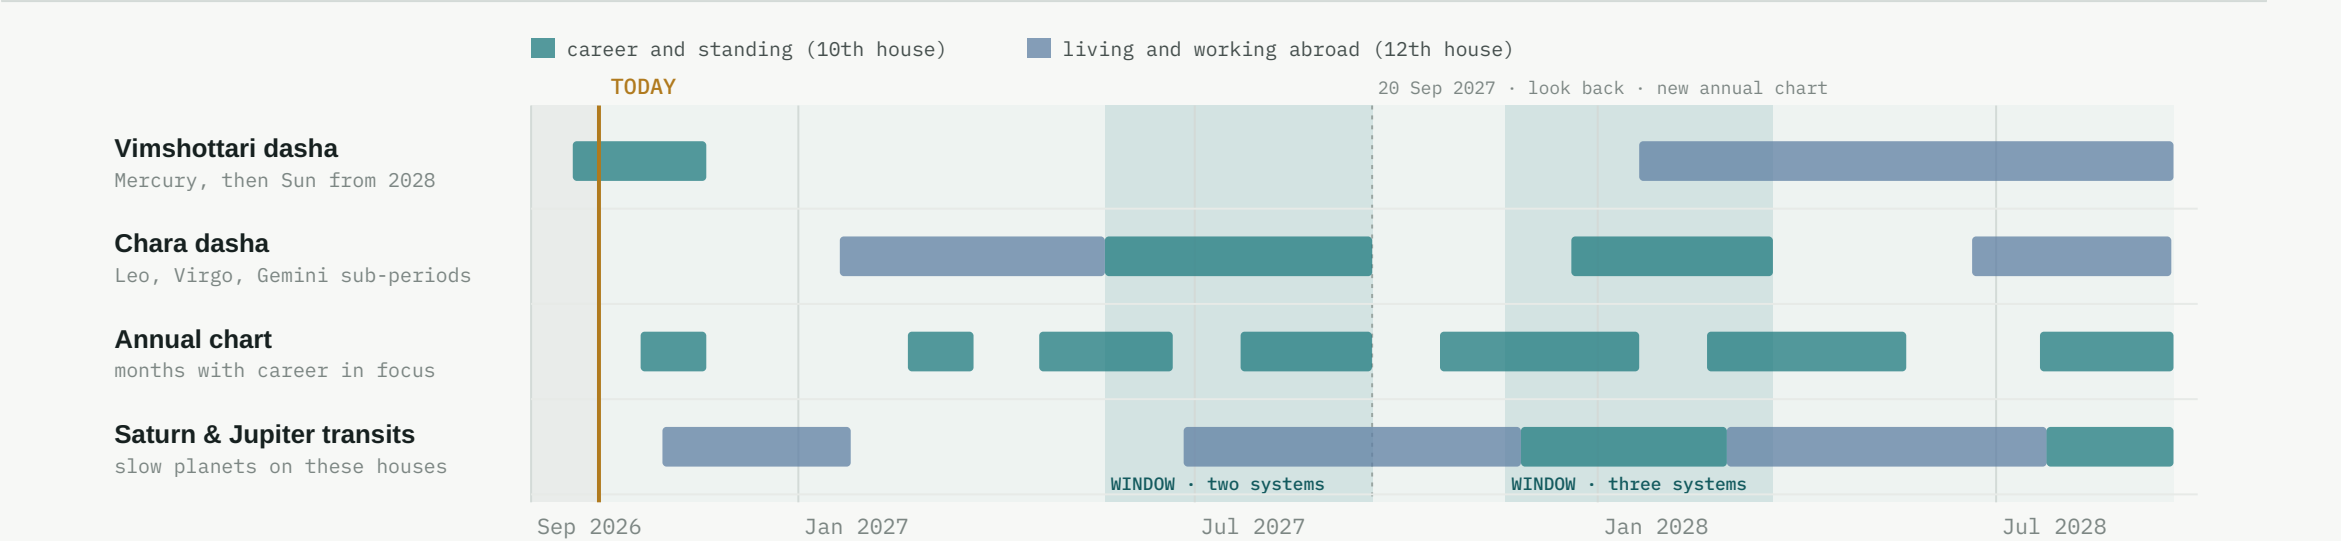

How you'll know we were wrong: April to July 2028 bring more such public steps than late November 2027 to March 2028.

3 From 20 January to 21 May 2027, contacts from abroad — introductions, invitations, people asking to work with you — are more likely to reach you than from late May to September 2027.

Basis: the Chara sub-period of Leo, your house of living abroad, runs 20 Jan to 21 May 2027; from 21 May it moves to your career. One system on each side, so this is background, not a window.

How you'll know we were wrong: late May to September 2027 bring as many such contacts, started by others, as January to May.

Two windows for your career – May to September 2027 and November 2027 to March 2028; none for moving, because the systems agree over too many months

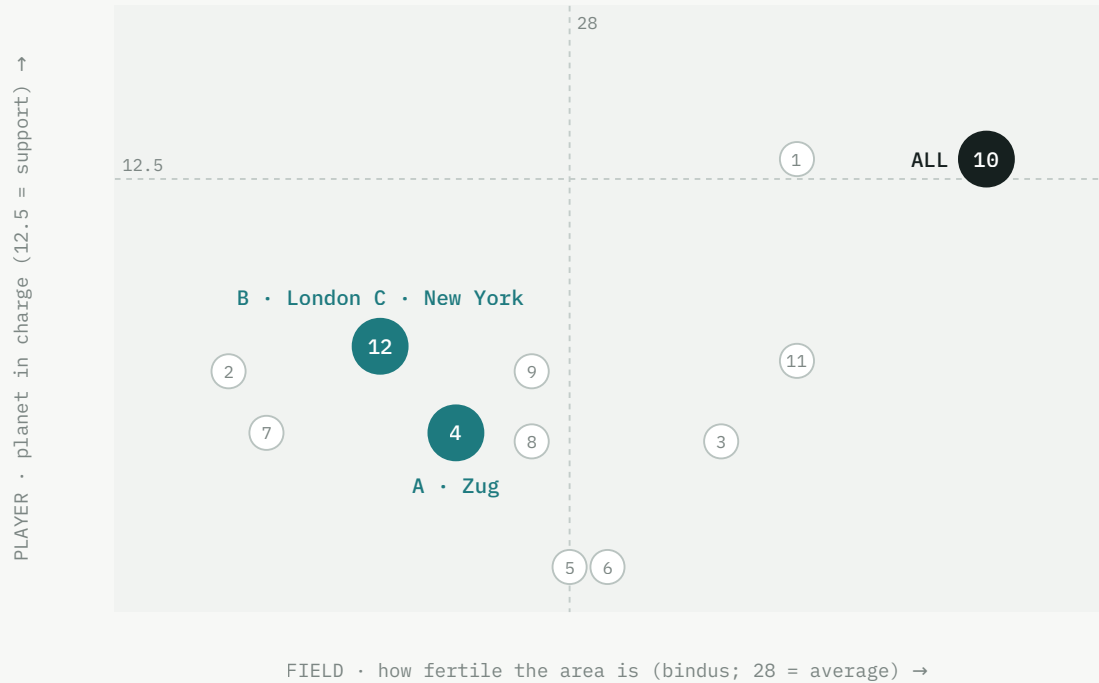

How a window is made. Four timing systems are read for two houses: career and standing, and living abroad. A window exists only where at least two different systems point to the same stretch, narrow enough to name; each system counts once.

What you see from today. For career, two systems meet from 21 May to 20 Sep 2027, and three from 20 Nov 2027 to 21 Mar 2028. For moving, three systems touch the house, but spread over most of the two years — so no window is named.

The same in every city. The career windows come out identical for Zug, London and New York. The city changes only which months your next annual chart marks.

Zug adds your home base; London and New York both add the house of living abroad – the chart cannot tell the two cities apart

Mapping rule. Every city is read through the question's own house — the 10th, career and standing — plus one house for what choosing it means: staying where you live (4th, home base) or moving (12th, abroad). You can change the mapping.

	SHARED	ITS OWN HOUSE
A Zug	10 · 39 bindus · Mercury 12.7	4 · home base · 25 bindus · Jupiter 9.6
B London	same	12 · abroad · 23 bindus · Sun 10.6
C New York	same	12 · abroad · the chart cannot tell it from London

WHAT THE CITY ITSELF CHANGES

Only your annual chart, and only from 20 September 2027 — it is built where you live then. For Zug and London it comes out the same: Cancer rising, the Moon rules the year. For New York: Aries rising, the Moon rules the year. The two career windows are the same in all three.

How to read the grid. Right = the area itself is fertile (bindus above the average of 28). Up = the planet in charge of it is strong (Vimshopaka 12.5 or more). It describes; it does not rank the cities.

The same questions for all three cities – fill it in from your own evidence

QUESTION	A · ZUG	B · LONDON	C · NEW YORK
Where your first customers, targets or deals are
Who already knows you there — partners, advisers, people who would back you
What it takes to set up: company, permits, time to first contract
What it costs you to start, and to run for three years
What it means for your family and daily life
What you can do there that you cannot do in the other two
What would make you drop this city?

The chart takes no part in this scorecard. It is here so the comparison is made on evidence, like for like.

We describe and date rather than predict — because tests of astrology, including our own, find no forecasting power

WHY WE ONLY DESCRIBE

In our preregistered test on 152 birth-certificate charts, the central classical rule for wealth held in 41% of very wealthy people and in 41% of ordinary employees born in the same years. Reviews of 40+ controlled studies find astrologers' accuracy at chance (Dean & Kelly, 2003). So a brief describes and dates; it never rates, ranks or forecasts.

WHAT THIS BRIEF CANNOT CARRY

- Which city's market will work for you.
- Tax, permits or company set-up — take advice on these.
- Any rating, ranking or chance of success.
- A difference between two cities abroad: the chart reads both through one house.

HOW IT WAS CALCULATED

- Sidereal zodiac, Lahiri ayanamsha, whole-sign houses, Swiss Ephemeris.
- Invented birth data for this sample: 20.09.1985, 08:15, Zurich → 06:15 UT.
- Annual chart built for Zug, where the reader lives; for comparison, 2027–28 also built for London and New York.
- Window rule v3; four systems ran. Computed 2 Oct 2026; generated on request, not stored.
